FREIGHT.

Writing on the 10th inst. Messrs. Lam-Rogge says—Freights still continue to drag considerably. The demand that there has been in connection with the sailing at Saigon during the period under review has been exceedingly limited. Inquiries for Java as well as for Japan appear to have been entirely absent. Saigon to Hongkong has had a fixture as low as 12 cents. Sudden orders that came upon the market these last few days after boats for Saigon-Philippines loading, for prompt, have brought about a few fixtures in that direction at rates between 30 and 27 cents according to quantities, in each instance, however, for very small parcels of cargo only, the boats accepting having perforce to be satisfied with part cargoes. When it is added that a charter was concluded Saigon to Vladivostok, of a medium size steamer, middle of the month loading, at 49 cents, all is said concerning the local business of the fortnight in respect of Saigon.Arrivals there of supplies of new crop grain are reported to continue small, with the mills each and all requiring quite a lot yet to fill old contracts, hence prospects are not for immediate requirements of further tonnage.From Bangkok, though prospects are better, there has been no special demand for outside boats, nor are river freights just present such as to leave any larger opening for ocean-liners, and from Java there is nothing doing.The first boats have taken the berth locally to load for Newchwang. As for return freights thence to Canton it is estimated that opening rates may be something like 27 cents per picul, meanwhile it is not at present expected that the port will be free from ice and open for navigation much before the last days of the month.From Iloilo, business has been reported done for Tientsin, a small cargo at 50 cents, and for Hongkong, a boat at 20 cents per picul.Japan coal freights have risen somewhat over and above the absolutely wretched level they have been held at. Rates to Shanghai are $1.40 to this port $1.30 has been paid for large steamers locally. There are inquiries for the various coast ports, which have not so far been met at shippers' quotations. It is a fact worth noting though that the high coal prices appear to have entirely stopped business Japan to Singapore. In this direction no quotation has been forthcoming for quite a long time."On time," there are the fixtures of two steamers on record locally for 3 and 12 months term respectively.Concerning sail freights there is nothing new to advise.Sail-tonnage Disengagement—Ge m. ship Albert Rickmers, 1,880 tons net reg.
leave, 3rd March.FIGHTING SHYLOCK IN LONDON COURT.An exciting scene occurred in the Lambeth county court during the hearing of a case in which Mr. G. E. Lowe, a moneylender, trading as William Robinson, of Grumman road, Peak-ham, was plaintiff in respect to $5.40, the balance of a debt due from George Taverner, a city clerk.The clerk wrote that he was unable to attend owing to his business. He asked to be allowed to pay by instalments of 60 cents a month, pledging that he had five young children and a salary of only $7.20 a week. Judge Emden suggested the acceptance of this offer, remarking that if the statements made in the letter were correct, he would not make an order of commitment.Mr. Lowe said that exactly the same facts as stated in the letter were before the court on a previous occasion, when a commitment order was granted."You should not be so positive," observed the judge. "For five years past I have made it a rule not to make commitment orders in cases of this kind, where there are seven persons to be supported out of $7.20 a week."The moneylender persisted in his assertion.
Returning to his seat, he called out, "You did make an order the last day on the same facts."By direction of the judge, Mr. Lowe went back to the witness box. Asked why he should not be committed for contempt he asserted that the clerk's letter read on the previous occasion would prove that he was right.Judge Emden ordered the production of the letter, and directed Lowe to leave the witness box in the meantime.Refusing to do this, Mr. Lowe was forcibly removed by a policeman and two bailiffs.
Then he jumped up in the jury box, in which he had been placed, and, addressing the judge, shouted, "I will write to the lord chancellor about this. You have been in trouble with him before.""Remove this man," said the judge, curtly.
A constable went to obey the order. But he was unable to carry it out. Mr. Lowe, who is a powerful man, little past the prime of life, resisted doggedly, and clung to the desk and other articles. Others went to the officers' assistance and by their united efforts the money-lender was ejected from the court.After the luncheon interval the case was again called on, but there was no appearance for either party. The letter from the clerk referred to was read, in which Taverner mentioned that at that time he had four children."I know I was right," said the judge, "because for years back I have made it a rule never to make commitment orders where the man's salary works out at less than $1.20 per week per head for his household. The plaintiff in this case had acted unreasonably and de-fectly, but I shall not commit him for contempt."

JAPAN'S FINANCES.

Notwithstanding the war waged with Russia, Japan's finances show no reduction from the trade point of view. In the case of imports, there was a considerable increase, due to the heavy importation of war material and of goods ordered to arrive in time before the war duties came into force. The importation of ordinary classes of goods also largely increased, while exports also showed a good increase, sales of the principal goods continuing active. The success of the Japanese arms on land and sea found wider markets for Japanese goods in China, and sales of cotton goods and yarn signally increased. The total excess of imports over exports was nearly 28 million yen, as compared with 52 million yen in the previous year. The exports for 1904 showed an increase of about 30 million yen in value on the figures for the preceding year, imports an increase of about 50 million yen, and the total trade an increase of a little over $3,900,000 yen. It is interesting to note, as affecting Hongkong, that cotton goods and yarn were imported to a very large extent, while raw cotton also found a good market. Some of the principal items of export fell, however, including manufactured cotton, porcelain, etc. It is, as a Japanese native paper says, to be regretted that sales of the raw silk and habutae, which form the most important lines of export, fell off heavily, the decrease of raw silk representing about 20 million yen and of habutae about 10 million yen. The result of exports in bulk for the year just ended will not, therefore, be much better than for the preceding year. The excess of imports over exports in consequence of the excess of imports was settled with the money raised by the issue of foreign bonds, and the surplus was brought home. It is gratifying, concludes the Tokyo journal, that the foreign trade of the Empire during the war remained in a very healthy condition, showing good increase. The apprehensions entertained with regard to the trade of the country at the outbreak of the war were not realised. Altogether, Japan may be considered to be not merely solvent but in an extremely prosperous condition. Few countries could act as principals in a great struggle, and at the same time maintain a flourishing exchequer.

THE most valuable desolate islands in the world are the Liakova, in the Arctic Ocean, off the mouth of the Lena, in Siberia. They are frost-bound and utterly barren, save for Arctic moss, but they contain such enormous quantities of fossil ivory that they are exceedingly valuable—in fact, although uninhabited save for the ivory-diggers, and of themselves incapable of supporting life, they produce a revenue of £1,000,000 a year.

THE great South Dakota Cave is the largest cavern in the world. It is situated in the region of the Black Hills in America, and exceeds even the Mammoth Cave in Kentucky. The woman was charged at the Police Court this morning for doing grievous bodily harm to the coolie. As the man is unable to leave hospital the case had to be adjourned.

His father, according to M. Sokolow, editor of the Hebrew daily, Haczepirah, of Warsaw, was known as "the pious German," on account of his fashionable attire. The son, however, left the country, turned Christian, adopted the name of Verne, and although he seems to have been a Pole, by nationality and by preference, he subsequently became a thorough Frenchman.

BREACH OF HARBOUR RULES.

FAILING TO REPORT "DANGEROUS GOODS."

At the instance of John Grant, police-sergeant, Chung Kwong Tung, master of the Kam Sing Wo junk, was charged at the Police Court this morning, for giving false particulars when applying for a port clearance at Sham-shui-po on the night of the 10th inst.; (2) keeping on board his junk twenty-two bags of gunpowder without the permission of H.E. the Governor; (3) failing, while having on board his junk dangerous goods, to hoist a red flag at the mast head of his junk; and (4) failing to anchor in the "dangerous goods" anchorage while having dangerous goods on board. The defendant denied the charges, and evidence was heard to the effect that accused informed the Sham-shui-po authorities, when applying for clearance, that he had a cargo of coal on board. His junk was searched on arrival there, and the dangerous goods found hidden in the fore part of his junk. Mr. C. A. D. Melbourne found the defendant guilty, and fined him $5 on the first charge, $100 on the second, $10 on the third, and on the fourth a further fine of $10, making a total of $130.

CUSTOMS DILEMMA.

WHEN IS A GUN NOT A GUN?

Is a gun a musical instrument? This is a question that has greatly exercised the Bangkok Customs authorities the last day or two, says the Bangkok Times. It appears that a certain European resident in Bangkok had a box arrive by the s.s. Tanglin and he declared it to contain "clothes and a musical instrument." For some reason or other the Customs took more than usual interest in this box, and found that the bottom was marvellously thick and very heavy. The scientific application of a hammer and chisel revealed the bottom to be false; and in the space between lay a fine sporting gun and several hundred cartridges. There are explanations which it is hoped may prove satisfactory.

THE PEAK TRAMWAYS.

MR. C. EWENS' EVIDENCE.

INTERESTING PROCEEDINGS.

In Original Jurisdiction this morning, before His Honour Sir Francis Pigott, Chief Justice, the case of D. E. Brown et al against the Hongkong High-Level Tramways Co., Ltd., and Messrs. J. D. Humphreys and Son, was continued.

The Hon. Mr. H. E. Pollock, K.C., instructed by Mr. John Hastings, appeared for the plaintiffs, and Mr. E. H. Sharp, K.C., and Mr. W. Slade, instructed by Mr. J. H. Harston, of Messrs. Ewens, Harston and Harding, appeared for the defendants.

As a preliminary to the proceedings Mr. Sharp put in a voluminous pile of correspondence bearing on the matter at issue. Mr. Ewens, called, said he was a partner in the firm of Messrs. Ewens, Harston and Harding. He had been a member of the consulting committee of the old Company since 1904, except for a short period when he was at home, his place being taken by Mr. Harston. In 1888, the year of construction, a dividend was paid, which he considered was improperly paid.

Mr. Sharp: You don't mean "imprudently" paid but "improperly" paid?—Yes, that is so. In 1904 it was considered best to accumulate funds to meet expected opposition, and only a dividend of 15% was paid. He returned in 1904, in December, Smith's Bill had then passed its second reading. They were then doing their best to oppose the Bill, and presented a petition to be heard by Counsel against the Bill, and move in correspondence with the Government, stating the strong objection they had to a new station being placed close to theirs, and they continued that opposition.

Mr. Sharp: Then what changed that attitude? Witness: We received a letter from Government stating that they would not compel Mr. Findlay Smith to take another station.

Mr. Sharp: Did you consider that important? Well, we considered that it made our tramway worth scrap iron and nothing more. The effect would have been to close the line to passenger traffic and use it only for goods, and we did not think that would pay. Then we thought it best (in prospective) to stop all dividends and run the lines, free to stop the opposition. The third plan was either to buy out Mr. Findlay Smith or to make it ourselves. There were two ways in which it could be done, by raising capital and constructing it ourselves, or sell out to a new company who would run both lines, on fresh capital; this is what we call re-construction.

Mr. Sharp: Was the position of Government considered in these schemes?—Yes, we communicated the suggestions to the Government on the 15th April.

Mr. Sharp then read the letter, in which Messrs. Ewens, Harston and Harding, as solicitors of the Company, explained the position.

Mr. Sharp: What did you consider would be the effect of the new company on your company?—I am very doubtful if it would then pay its expenses. When you consider the present line the great majority of passengers are military who travel at half price, and the new line would be a larger line, having double cars of a larger make and more frequent starting, so that it would be most difficult, or almost impossible to work at a profit. It would only leave them Barker Road and the military to cater for, and they might retain them as in those cases alone their line was convenient. The new line was to return through Caine Road, Robinson Road and Queen's Gardens—a very populous district. The working on those levels would yield them a very good profit, and hardly any company would risk such an opposition if there was any possibility of coming to terms. These points were then considered by the consulting committee, who held 932 shares out of a total of 1,250. After consideration, the consulting committee came to the conclusion that the best way to meet the difficulty was to reconstruct, or to sell the old undertaking to the new company.

Mr. Sharp: And the price?

Hon. Mr. Pollock: I don't think, your Lordship, now is the time to go into prices.

Mr. Sharp: I merely want to put before your Lordship the facts of the price.

His Honour upheld the objection.

Mr. Sharp: Then, Mr. Ewens, just state broadly your idea.

Mr. Ewens: We fixed upon a price of $200 per share as a price we could obtain. There had been a sale of shares at that figure plus certain dividend; we considered that a fair price, as if the opposition started the shares would depreciate. The dividends worked out at about $30 per share. That dividend had not accrued, but it was accruing. The consulting committee considered that was the best price they could get. They then communicated the whole scheme and instructed Messrs. Benjamin, Kelly and Potts to negotiate with Mr. Findlay Smith for the sale of the concession by the new Company, subject to the approval of the Government to the scheme.

Mr. Sharp: Was the scheme kept secret, or was it generally known?

Mr. Ewens: As soon as we made the offer we tried to make it known as widely as we could. Mr. Findlay Smith, through his solicitors, Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master, notified his acceptance of Mr. Kadoorie's offer of $25,000 inclusive, on the 12th May, and on the same day they wrote that the actual purchasers were the China Commercial Company, Ltd.

Witness then went on to say he drafted the notices and the circular letter, embodying the points of the scheme.

Mr. Sharp: The word "re-construction" has been largely quoted; and now, what are your views of the meaning to be put on the word?

Hon. Mr. Pollock objected as he said the opinion of one man was immaterial.

His Honour: I've no objection to hearing his views.

Mr. Sharp:—Of course it is merely the general opinion of a business man.

Mr. Pollock:—As that, quite so.

Mr. Ewens: It is the sale of a company's undertaking to a new company, to be run by the latter usually with additional capital, but it does not necessarily entail the sale of the shares.

His Honour: That does not convey much to my mind. That is a sale pure and simple; there does not appear to be any reconstruction in the matter. Do the original directors have any control in the working of the new company? If so, that would be a re-construction.

Mr. Ewens: They are not barred out from doing so.

His Honour: Then do you say that a compulsory sale is a re-construction?

Mr. Ewens: There is no compulsory sale.

Mr. Sharp: It does not matter if the company is sold out for a lump sum, or so much per share amounting to that lump sum.

Witness, continuing, said that the articles of association of the new company were open to the public, and were laid on the table at the first meeting. He was not present at the second meeting, so he could not say if they were produced then. He was away from the Colony. At the first meeting 1,155 shares were represented, and 95 were unrepresented. All either expressed their approval of the new scheme directly, or by applying for new shares, with the exception of one holder of five shares, and they had not heard from him.

Mr. Sharp proceeded to refer to the willingness of the Governor in Council to approve the scheme.

Mr. Pollock objected to such a reference, as he held a letter from the Colonial Secretary denying that altogether.

His Honour held that it was unnecessary for Mr. Sharp to go into that matter at present.

Mr. Sharp said he did not wish to indicate that they had the approval of the Governor in Council, but that they were acting with the full cognizance of the Governor in Council, who had been informed officially of the proceedings.

But he did not wish to say that the promise of support had been given.

Mr. Pollock: But the words are, "And the sanction of the Governor in Council, has been, to all intents and purposes, promised to the scheme."

Mr. Sharp: That's just it; "to all intents and purposes," and I think that is a very reasonable construction to be put upon the correspondence. However, we will argue that later. Now, about the price, do you think it possible to have obtained a higher price than $25,000 for the undertaking?—No, it would have been impossible to have obtained more anywhere.

His Honour: I am averse to hearing anything about the price at present.

Mr. Sharp: Very well, my Lord. I have no further questions to ask.

Cross-examined by Hon. Mr. Pollock, witness said he was a shareholder to the extent of one-tenth in the China Commercial Company, Limited, the capital of which was $1 million, and he held 100 shares.

Kelly and Potts, held about one-third of the shares. He did not know if Mr. Henry Humphreys was a shareholder, but he did not doubt that he was. Mr. Findlay Smith would not sell to the old company, and that was how the China Commercial Company came into the matter. He understood that the Governor in Council had approved the scheme, prior to October, and for that reason the third meeting was held back. There were also important alterations made in the Bill, which, he took it, would not have been made unless such sanction was either given or contemplated.

Mr. Pollock: You have said that the Government threatened to close the Barker Road Station. Did the Government actually and really threaten?—Yes, unless we practically rebuilt it.

Mr. Pollock: Suppose the new line were built from the Battery Road to Victoria Gap, and only worked up to Queen's Gardens level, would it pay you to return the old line carrying goods and such passengers free as you have room for? That is impossible to say definitely, but if they worked the upper part it should pay handsomely.

The precedents for the notice issued were discussed, and witness, continuing, said that Mr. McEwen, of Jardine, Matheson & Co., sold shares at $200 to the China Commercial Company. The $100,000 to be paid to Messrs. Benjamin, Kelly and Potts was to be paid by the China Commercial Company; it was to cover costs and brokerage.

The extension of the line from the present station to Queen's Road would cost $80,000 or $100,000, but it would be impracticable to make the extension.

Mr. Pollock: Then why did you enter into the lengthy correspondence with the Government for sanction to do their impracticable thing?—That was before we found out that it was impracticable.

After the timely adjournment, Mr. Slade, addressing the Court, said that he must submit that the plaintiff had failed to prove any single one of the allegations made in the statement of claim which defendants had denied. It was perfectly clear that the old company was not under any obligation whatever to pay $25,000 to Mr. Findlay Smith, or in fact, to anybody else. Neither were the resolutions ultra vires. He contended that the notice referred to was distinctly valid as it contained the requisite statement of the business which was to be transacted, and actually gave the words of the resolution to be put forward. The circular which accompanied the notice gave a sketch of the proceedings, and was not, certainly, of a deceptive nature. Any business man reading the notice would at once understand that the old company was to cease to exist, and a new company was to be formed with the object of carrying on the same business. In other words it was a notice of reconstruction. The sole practical question which the shareholders had to decide at that meeting was whether or not the price offered was or was not adequate; the other resolutions were the mere machinery to be used for carrying out the proposition. Taking the resolutions as they stood, there could not be any doubt whatever as to what it was proposed should be done at that meeting.

Mr. Slade then argued at some length as to the distinction between an out and out "sale" and a "re-construction," and then proceeded to argue as to the powers of a general manager of a firm, stating that the shareholders had to be bound by the terms of the articles of association, and if they chose to give the general manager unlimited powers they had nothing to say if he chose to exercise those powers, and if the manager sold the property of the company for cash the shareholders had no right to arbitration; but if he sells on the basis of shares in the new company as purchase consideration, he could not compel the shareholders in the old to take shares in the new company. Counsel then proceeded to quote authorities for the sale of companies.

The case was then adjourned until to-morrow morning.

CONFLAGRATION AT KOWLOON.

CEMENT WORKS ANHLAZE.

Fire broke out in the cooage department of the Green Island Cement Works, Hunghom, at about eight o'clock last evening. When the brigades from the Kowloon Docks and Yau-ma-tei Police Station arrived the flames were burning furiously and had a good grip on the building. The fire-float also arrived and materially assisted in extinguishing the blaze. The fire-fighters worked hard, and at nine o'clock although the fire was under control it was steadily burning. Then Messrs. from the Callao and Barry gave a hand, and an hour or two later the flames were extinguished. At one o'clock in the morning the fire was entirely subdued, and the firemen left the scene. The cooage was gutted. The police are at present unable to give the origin of the fire, but they are of opinion that the smoking of careless coolies might have been the cause. The damage, which is covered by insurance, is estimated at $36,000. During the blaze thousands of spectators visited the scene and watched the fire.

According to Messrs. Shaw, Tones & Co., the premises were insured for $15,000, which was underwritten by eleven companies. Of that amount 70 per cent, has been lost. None of the better machines was damaged.

DAMAGING PROPERTY.

TROUBLE BETWEEN TWO WOMEN.

At the Magistrate's Court this afternoon, before Mr. C. A. D. Melbourne, Miss J. A. Watkins, dressmaker, residing at No. 27 Des Voeux Road summoned Miss Charlotte Neilson, a barmaid, residing on the second floor of the same building, for maliciously damaging certain property on the 9th inst. The defendant pleaded not guilty.

Mr. E. J. Grist, of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, appeared for the complainant, and Mr. C. A. D. Melbourne, of Messrs. Brutton, Pett and Goldring, defended.

His Worship: Is there any chance of settling this case out of Court?

Mr. Grist:—I don't think so. It is a continuing nuisance.

Mr. Brutton:—This was no continuing nuisance. When the complainant met my client on the staircase she said nothing about any damage being done. My client if she had been told of the damage would have compensated the complainant.

The complainant said that on the date in question she had just returned home to find her place covered with dirty water, which had leaked from the top floor. Witness stated that this happened on many occasions, and sometimes twice a day. On Wednesday witness informed defendant that she had taken out a summons. Witness never informed defendant of the water leaking down. After witness had told defendant of the summons, the latter went away and later more water came dripping down.

His Worship discharged the defendant on the first charge, and as regards the second, of disorderly behaviour, she was cautioned.

The Morocco Conference.

LONDON, 9th March.
The Austrian delegate at Algeiras has submitted a scheme for the Franco-Spanish policing of Morocco, with a Swiss or Dutch inspector-general.

Herr von Radowitz has accepted this scheme provided it is under international surveillance. He says that Macedonia and China have proved the advantages of joint European control.

M. Revell says that France is prepared to give fresh guarantees for commercial equality, if the conference is agreed upon a Franco-Spanish policing.

It is believed that the Austrian proposal is inspired by Germany.

Later.
France regards the proposal for a Dutch or Swiss inspector-general of police in Morocco as a complication, and as unacceptable.

Everything, however, points to a satisfactory compromise.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The following is the annual report of the Association:—The Committee have the pleasure to submit to the Members a report and statement of the accounts for the year ending 31st December, 1905. The association was formed on the 29th November, 1904, at a meeting held in the Legislative Council Chamber at which His Excellency Sir Matthew Nathan presided, when about 50 members were enrolled. On the 31st December, 1905, our members' roll reached 213. During the year the Hon. Mr. F. H. May, C.M.G., and Messrs C. W. T. Brett and A. H. Skelton being about to leave the colony temporarily, resigned from the committee and their places were filled by the election of Messrs J. Whittall, L. A. M. Johnston, and J. C. Gow. The April cups presented by the association were won by A. Moir and L. A. M. Johnston. The Bingham Cup presented by Mr. J. E. Bingham, on Boxing Day, was won by J. J. Stubbing, 67+3=70. The money for the construction of the range at Harlechi Road, the Peak, has been provided by the Government, but no progress with the work has yet been possible. Tenders for the construction will be called for shortly. In accordance with rule 9 a new committee consisting of a chairman, a secretary and eight other members must be elected at this meeting. Members who have served on the committee during the past year are eligible for re-election, but Mr. W. H. Trenchard Davis, who has so ably filled the offices of hon. secretary and treasurer since the formation of the association, does not desire re-election.

CANTON NOISES.

[From Our Correspondent.]

REVIVAL OF THE SILK TRADE.

The past week has witnessed quite a revival of the silk export trade which has lain dormant for so many months past, large shipments having been cleared both for Europe and the United States in spite of the prohibitive exchange still ruling. Better prices from abroad and cheaper labour at home both contributed to the much-needed impetus.

CHINESE PROPERTY OWNERS' NARROW IDEAS.

When will the Chinese population benefit from experience? The process of re-erection of the houses recently destroyed by fire is proceeding apace, and to judge from appearances no provision is being allowed for wider streets or better light and ventilation, the buildings being a duplicate of the ones destroyed. One would imagine that by this time the landlords would appreciate the advantages of better and wider thoroughfares, both for enhancing the value of their holdings and, for the additional facilities afforded for the suppression and confining of fires. Evidently, however, they have yet to learn.

A POLICEMAN'S LOT IS NOT A HAPPY ONE.

The duties of the Canton police are not to be envied. Yesterday morning the Viceroy's favourite pet dog—a setter I believe—disappeared from the Yamen, and as the Viceroy prized this particular dog, he immediately summoned the inspector in charge of the No. 5 Police district to appear before him and whom he severely reprimanded for allowing this dog to get lost; and further he gave the inspector two days in which to locate and recover the dog, or suffer the consequences of his neglect.

CANTON-HANKOW RAILWAY.

To a large section of the more enlightened of Chinese merchants, the one serious drawback to the ultimate success of the Canton-Hankow Railway scheme is the proposition of the promoters to build the line without the assistance of foreign engineers. They maintain, and with a measure of correctness, that the so-called Chinese railway engineers have not the required experience to undertake successfully the construction of such an important line, necessitating the solving of several difficult engineering problems not hitherto attempted by Chinese engineers. Perhaps after all the promoters will see the advantage of engaging an experienced European engineer to superintend the construction.

ALLEGED ARSON.

At the instance of Mr. F. J. Bodeley, Captain Superintendent of Police, at the Police Court this morning, the master of a ship at No. 147, Wing Lok Street, a salesman, a servant, and a cook, were charged with having on 8th March unlawfully and maliciously set fire to house No. 147, Wing Lok Street, with intent thereby to defraud Messrs. Butterfield & Swire, agents for the London and Lancashire and Royal Exchange Insurance Companies, of $10,000; and Messrs. Shewan, Tomes and Company, agents for the North British Mercantile Insurance Company of $6,000. The defendants pleaded "not guilty." The police asked for a week's remand, and the adjournment was granted.

GERMAN SHIPS.

HOW THEY ARE SUBSIDISED.

The general agent in Australia for the North German Lloyd, Mr. G. H. Boner, was examined in Sydney last month before the Federal Mail Subsidies Commission, and furnished information respecting the subsidies received by his company from the German Government, a subject, he said, upon which there existed a good deal of misapprehension.

Altogether, he said, the Government of Germany paid, in mail subsidies, about £400,000 annually, and of that sum the North German Lloyd received £274,000; in consideration of maintaining a fortnightly mail service to the Straits, China, and Japan (twenty-six trips out and back annually); a monthly service to Australia (thirteen trips out and back per year); and a monthly service between Australia, German New Guinea, China, and Japan. The stipulated speed was 14 knots between Naples and China, 12 knots between China and Japan; and 13 knots between Naples and Adelaide. In all, the service worked out at 1,171,600 knots annually, and an average subsidy of practically 4s. 8d. per mile.

The company at one time, Mr. Boner further explained, had their mail service to Australia a two-weekly one, but they lost such a tremendous amount of money by it that they did not continue. Then they reduced it to a three-weekly service, but found that did not pay either. So they went back this season to a monthly service, substituting freight steamers in between. It was practically a fortnightly service now, but only a monthly service for mails.

They received no subsidy whatever for the steamers that did not carry mails, and on these boats they carried what goods they like. In respect of those steamers, they were under no obligation to the Government. The freight of mail steamers was restricted, as far as the German ports were concerned. "The two-weekly and three-weekly mail services were abandoned," said Mr. Boner, "because sometimes the freight was so low that they would not pay the coal bill. For about three months of the year there would be very little business, and then for three months the traffic would be heavy."

The witness further stated that, as a condition to the payment of the subsidy, the German Government required that officials, either civil, naval, or military, should be carried at a 50 per cent. reduction in fare, and that troops should be carried whenever required at a very low rate. By this means the Government saved a lot of money, by not having to maintain, as the British Government had, a transport service.

Mr. Boner added that the company's general schedule of rates was subject to Government approval, and the clauses in the bills of lading were agreed to jointly by the Government and the company.—Sydney Evening News.

HONGKONG GODOWN COMPANY.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The nineteenth annual meeting of the Hongkong and Kowloon Wharf and Godown Company, Ltd., was held in the City Hall this afternoon, the Hon. Mr. C. W. Dickson presiding. Among those present were Sir Paul Chater, Messrs E. Goetz, N. A. Siebs, A. Haupt, R. Shelling, G. H. Medhurst, E. A. Hewitt, C. R. Leuzmann, C. H. Thompson, A. G. Wood, directors; E. Osborne, secretary; Captain Brown, J. R. Michael, A. Forbes, H. Percy Smith, J. Orange, T. Arnold, F. Smyth, J. Lambert and Captain Tillett.

The Secretary read the notice calling the meeting.

The Chairman said:—Gentlemen:—The report and accounts having been laid before you for several days, I propose, they be regarded as read. The main feature of the year's work, as disclosed by the report, is that we have expended considerable sums in the development of your property and business, to keep pace with the growth of the Colony's shipping trade, which places Hongkong in the unique position of harbouring annually the largest aggregate of registered tonnage of any port in the world. The commencement of work on the British section of the Kowloon-Canton railway leads to the hope that the long deferred industrial advance of Kowloon is nearer at hand, and you will therefore doubtless endorse the board's action in acquiring, from the estate of the late Mr. Granville Sharp, additional accommodation in the piece of land that lay wedged into the Company's property at Kowloon Point. We have spent largely, and are making further outlays, on lighter craft in order to cope with the increasing amount of work which is now entrusted to us and which was formerly monopolised by native lightermen. These additional boats will also assist in expediting discharge of vessels lying at the wharves. In the early part of 1905 considerable difficulties were in connection with Chinese New Year settlements, and you will be pleased to learn that though serious irregularities occurred in connection with goods deposited in other public godowns the merchandise entrusted to our care was in every instance found to be intact, thus emphasising the advantages of storage with the wharf company. The dividend which is recommended for your acceptance, though larger than has been hitherto customary, still represents but a moderate return on the market value of your assets, if such value may be gauged by the price at which land in the vicinity of the Kowloon godowns has recently changed ownership. The development of your business has been slow and the rate of profit derived from it has not kept pace with the appreciation of your property, but you have satisfaction in the knowledge that the business rests on solid foundations and we must look forward to the possibility of more abundant harvests as the years progress.

Mr. Michael—I expected to hear from the chair some reason with regard to the working account. We have been supplied for the last 18 years with a statement of the working account, and no reason has been made by the chair on the subject. Can any explanation be given?

The Chairman—The directors, after due consideration, decided that it was inadvisable to publish the particulars hitherto given on working account as it was information which might be used to our detriment.

Mr. Arnold seconded the adoption of the report and accounts. Carried unanimously.

Mr. Forbes moved the confirmation of Messrs. E. S. Wheeler, E. A. Hewitt, and H. Schubart as directors, and the appointment of Messrs. E. A. Hewitt and A. J. Raymond.

Mr. Orange seconded. Agreed.

Mr. Michael moved the re-appointment of the auditors—Messrs. W. H. Potts and A. O'D. Gourdin.

Mr. Percy Smith seconded. Agreed.

The Chairman—I thank you for your attendance. Dividend warrants may be had on application.

WHITE MAGIC.

TALES OF THE TSAR'S WIZARD AND OTHER MODERN MYSTICS.

"C. I. B." the Paris correspondent of the New York Tribune Review, contributed the following interesting article to a recent issue of that journal:

The recent death of Philippe Landard, popularly known as the "Tsar's Magician," who, after exercising predominant influence at the Russian Court, ended his days in disgrace and poverty in his native village of St. Julien l'Arbretille, in an Alpine village of the Rhone, not far from Lyons, elicits throughout France a wave of mysticism, giving vigorous impulse to the healing power of faith, which with fervid Roman Catholics swells the stream of pilgrims to Lourdes, and with Protestants, or free-thinkers, takes a form of occultism analogous to that of Christian Science in the United States. The strange career of Philippe, "the Magician," is being utilised by M. Albion Magabreque, the dramatist for play entitled "Le Thaumaturge," which is the author's intention to bring out at one of the boulevard theatres in the coming season.

Philippe, whose father was a shepherd, was born in a hamlet in the French Alps. Accustomed to accompany his father to the Lyons slaughter houses, he made the acquaintance of a butcher, who employed him as assistant and delivery boy at Lyons. Philippe

WANTED TO BECOME A SURGEON. He attended lectures at the medical school of Lyons, but never made much progress, and failed to pass his examinations. When only 13 years of age he had already evinced remarkable powers of healing, accomplished by auto-suggestion, and in some cases by massage. He abandoned the butcher shop at seventeen, and established a "baignoir," or "bathhouse," and healer, in a quaint little "temple" in the Rue Telle d'Or at Lyons. His cures became famous. He treated all who came to him. He rapidly acquired local fame, and soon found himself in conflict with the local police, who arrested him as an illegal practitioner. He eluded prosecution by refraining from writing prescriptions and avoiding actual operations—he merely gave advice. For eighteen years he thus treated great numbers of patients, and to use his own words, "acted as an unconscious medium between his patients and a supreme occult power which inspired his counsel." It was owing to his reputation as a healer that he had spread from Lyons to Nice and to the fashionable French Riviera that Philippe was summoned to Russia by the Tsar. The Grand Duke Vladimir and Alexis, the Duc de Leuchtenberg and the morganatic wife of the assassinated Tsar Alexander, the Princess Yourieffsky, were deeply interested with the cures effected by Philippe, who came to Nice and successfully treated the Grand Duke Alexis for rheumatic pains in the knee.

Philippe, notwithstanding his modest, unassuming bearing, was a clever conversationalist, and possessed the sympathetic manner and voice frequently associated with persons skilled in occult science. Through the influence of the grand dukes he went to St. Petersburg, where he predicted to the Tsar and the Tsarina the birth of the present Tsarevitch, and in consequence he became, for a while,

THE TRUSTED ADVISER OF NICHOLAS II. Unluckily, Philippe, when consulted about the war with Japan, predicted a most brilliant series of Russian victories in Manchuria. He boldly told the Tsar that he was chosen by divine inspiration to announce that the Russian campaign in Manchuria would institute a new era of Muscovite glory that would dissolve with chemical thoroughness the "yellow peril" that threatened Russia and Europe. Events soon gave such irrefutable evidence of blatant nonsense of Philippe's hocus-fucus predictions that he fell into disgrace. One fine morning the Tsar not only refused to receive him, but he must quit Russian territory within 48 hours. Philippe, broken-hearted by his disgrace and banishment, proceeded to Lyons, and thence to St. Julien l'Arbretille where he died in great agony from an inflammation of the liver and kidneys, which with all his skill in faith healing he was unable to cure.

Philippe is credited with having cured more than 2,000 sufferers, most of whose cases had been pronounced hopeless by the regular physicians. M. Serge Basse, a well known journalist on the staff of "Figaro," states that Philippe instantaneously cured his son of chronic rheumatism, and Dr. Encausse affirms that he cured a child of tubercular meningitis.

Philippe's death has given a vigorous fillip to the science of "White Magic," which he was a highly skilled adept, and which is the particular form of occultism that finds just now the greatest fashionable favour in Paris. It is interesting to note that Eliphas Levi was the founder of the science of "White Magic," in France, and is recognised in Europe as its most authoritative exponent. He figured in the Second Empire, and was

A NOTED FAITH HEALER.

The history of these magicians and healers is much the same. Eliphas Levi, Ventras, and the zouave Jacob were all men of humble origin. Levi was by trade a book-binder, Ventras was a peasant, Jacob was a bugler in a regiment of cuirassiers, and Philippe was a herdsman. Even Dr. Encausse, surnamed the "Papus" or high priest of "White Magic" in Paris to-day, although he has full fledged university diplomas and was chef de clinique to Professor Luyts at the Salpêtrière Hospital, is the son of a peasant, who was also a famous rebouteur or faith healer in his native village, and among other achievements, invented the formula of the well known "admirable soap" which, it is claimed, will cure obesity. Dr. Encausse is a disciple of Eliphas Levi, and is President of the Marist Secret Society, which is a kind of mystic freemasonic association founded by a faith healer named Martin previous to the Revolution. Among prominent novits in Paris are Jules Lhermina, the novelist, Count Antoine de la Rochefoucauld, the impressionist painter; Mademoiselle de Philosophieff, lady-in-waiting at the Court of Russia; Count Marcel de Gernigny, the most prominent amateur actor in the smart set of Parisian society, and Madame de Pille-Will. The chief exponent of "Black Magic" was the late Stanislas du Guaita, a man of many and varied parts.

A BRILLIANT POET AND SOCIETY FAVOURITE, of whose customs was to decorate his breakfast tables with bowls of hot, hissing poison, in which pure absinthe was a formidable ingredient. A duel between la Guaita and "Papus" nearly ended in the latter's death, owing, it is said, to a spell cast upon "Papus" previous to the encounter by an overzealous second of his opponent. These spells, or enchantments, as they are termed, are just now in high favour with Parisian faith healers and magicians. Sar-Peladan, the poet and dramatist, whose "Sémiramis" has just been produced with great success at the open air theatre of Champs-Élysées, and who professes to be the reincarnation of a Chaldean high priest (Sar), claim to have suffered for a long time from a mysterious spell, which brought upon him all kinds of misfortunes, including a divorce from his wife, who was an aristocratic woman of wealth. "Papus" declares that he succeeded in exercising the evil spell in the nick of time before it produced fatal effects. The accredited poet of "White Magic" in Paris is Alan Koorde, a dreamy Breton, who combines a confirmed belief in spiritualism with faith in the existence of the Celtic fairies. Mme. de Thibes, a soothsayer of palmistry, still holds her own, but Mme. Julia, who reigns supreme in the Montmartre quarter, is greatly in vogue for healing and for prophecy. Her horoscope is drawn

FROM EGGS DROPPED IN GOLD WATER.

Faith healing in France is rapidly attaining proportions equal to those of Christian Science in America. Its rapid development in the last ten years is explained by its more enlightened adepts as due to the angelic origin of a number of persons incarnated on earth as human beings and as French citizens. This explanation seems to be derived from the Greek myth according to which Satan (Satur), who is the father, was overthrown by Jah-ven (Jove), the son, and the angel of Jah-ven in certain cases usurped power of Jah-ven as Satan, in order to prove to men, who use the children of Jah-ven, that there exist another divine power besides that of the Christian Deity. In Byron's "Cain" this notion is propounded in splendid language setting forth the mediæval heresy professed by the Cainites. Among the most fervent upholders of the Cainite creed of White Magicians, or faith healers, is Frederic Boudin, formerly President of the League of Catholic Youth of France, and an intimate companion of the late Pope Leo XIII. Another active disciple of the occultism and faith healing under the form of "white magic," and of which Paris is the centre, is M. Max George, the mystical composer, and former organist of Notre Dame Cathedral. Victorien Bardou and Sarah Bernhardt are both semi-convents (to this metaphysical sect, to which they have given marked impetus by their stimulating imaginations.
